Chapter I

- ① According to Own the Buyer, why can someone have a good product and still fail to make money?
- ② A person has a degree, talent and a good product, but no body is buying. What skill from chapter 1 is missing?
- ③ If you wanted to make money without first creating your own product, what does chapter 1 say you could do?
- ④ Own the Buyer says strong selling can create opportunities from conversations. What are two other things strong selling can help you do?
- 5 The book says, "The world rewards people who can move people." What does this mean in practical selling?
6. Before trying to "Own the Buyer" what four things does chapter 1 say you should learn to own?
7. Imagine two people are selling furniture. One makes the furniture the other knows many who are ready to buy furniture. According to chapter 1, where might the greater selling power be? Why?
8. A land broker owns no land. How can the broker still make money from a land transaction?
9. Instead of putting your money into a factory, what three things does chapter 1 say you can build to create leverage?

- 10) If you want to enter an industry as a salesperson, should your first question be "What can I sell?" or should you first understand the people involved? Explain using chapter 1 approach.
- 11) Choose one industry. Who are the customers, who are the buyers, and where can you find or meet those buyers?
12. After identifying producers and buyers, what are three ways chapter 1 says you could position yourself between them?
13. You meet someone who might buy, but you don't know whether they are serious. What three things should you check to qualify that prospect?
14. A person shows interest in your offer but has not yet bought. Using the glossary, what would you call this person and what should you do next.
